

Scarves at The Emirates tomorrow

22/10/07

Story by Chris Parry

It's a Champions League home game, so that can only mean one thing - SCARF NIGHT. The scarves have really started to catch on for our midweek home games with more & more scarves at each game so far.

As well as the Red & White Bar Scarves, it's great to see people digging out all sorts of old Arsenal scarves to bring along.

If you are going to the game straight from work tomorrow, make sure you remember to take them with you in the morning.

If you don't yet have a scarf to wave, then don't forget that the club shops are selling the Red & White Bar Scarf for a discounted price of £5 each (normal price £7), or you can also buy them from the many stalls outside the ground for a similar price.

That's all for now, more next week on the Premiership games, Banners, Usmanov & the Carling Cup.

Victory Through Harmony